

Having only a few media corporations own most media outlets is, in my opinion, very likely to restrict the information that individuals can access on a variety of issues. This flies in the face of having a well-informed voter base, which is essential for a democracy to function to its highest potential.

I am opposed to any vote which will lead to more media consolidation than we already have and I implore you to do everything you can to ensure that current ownership rules are retained.